Roena,

So glad to hear from you. I have not had any info from the Purtee/Partee Board for some time. The last time I heard was probably about a year ago.

My Mother Pauline Lois Purtee Shiverdecker DeWitte was 90 and died May 11, 2011 and my daughter who was Down Syndrome died Nov. 2, 2010.

I have been trying to get some Purtee info about my GGGrandfather George H. Purtee who died Nov. 22, 1907. According to the Family Bible he died in Miami Co Ohio and was buried in Defiance Co/Williams Co Ohio in Buck Cemetery. They have no record of his burial and no one(Defiance Co, Miami Co, Montgomery Co or Darke Co Ohio) have any record of his death. The reason he was in Miami Co Ohio was as far as I can tell because my GGrandparents Frank S Purtee/Mary Barbara Renz Purtee were moving south and they ending up in Darke Co Ohio. In the 1900 census they were in Defiance Co Ohio and then in 1910 in Darke Co Ohio. They lived in Darke Co Ohio until they died in 1946 Frank and 1951 Mary.

My Purtee/Partee line lived in Adams Co Ohio until Enos Purtee moved to Defiance Co Ohio which was Williams Co Ohio in 1820 when they arrived. They lived in Tiffin Twp, Bryan, Hicksville etc. before moving to Darke Co Ohio. This is info from the top of my head I will check and be more specific as soon as I have time to check for the years of the census and where they lived for you.

It will be so great to have someone who is aware of what and where to check in the area. You sound like a young 93 year old. I hope to be as good when I am your age.

I just got back from a trip to Norway and it was COLD compared to Southern California. My families living in the area I am researching are: Purtee/Partee, Renz, Bauer, Vollmer, Gurwell etc.

Love Twila

Subject: surprise!

Hi Twila, What a great surprise to see you joined our Williams County Genealogical Society. You probably aren't aware that two days before Thanksgiving in 2007 I moved back to home territory. I was born and raised, all 12 years of school in Farmer, OH until I left for my Alma Mater, Bowling Green State Univ. However, Mom ran the general store and Dad the garage in Farmer so I knew everyone in our little town and most of the people in the surrounding farms. The names you mentioned are all familiar to me except of course the old folks are mostly gone.

Last night I went with my 90yr. old friend and a much younger Mary Scranton to Defiance Co. Genealogical Society meeting in Defiance. (Interesting, Riverside is the name of the Cemetery in Defiance.) 90 yr old Gladys is a great genealogist. When I told them about my reconnecting with you, Gladys said oh, I know all those names too. Well, we're anxious to know what info you would like to have and we'll see what we can do.

Is the Partee-Purtee Board active anymore?

I'm doing well for 93 and a half. Just can't complain. Don't much care for this cold windy weather we have here in OH so look forward to Spring. I'm looking forward to hearing from you too. Your Buckeye cousin, Roena

Roena/Richard,

I hate it that I didn't have my line on my site now. Didn't expect to get so many hits at once for this line. Unfortunately I'm not sure which Aquilla you are looking for. I descend from Aquilla Purtee b. 1788 Pa. son of George and Elizabeth Partee. My family came from Adams County, Ohio somewhere around Peebles Ohio. My gg grandfather William T. Gorman married the granddaughter of Aquilla Purtee, Sarah G. Purtee. Attached is a 5 generation report from Aquilla to my father and mother. If you see any matches to this family and can add anything would be greatly appreciated. Also there is a family site at Myfamily.com that I'd be glad to add you to if you don't already have access to where there are alot of cousins who are more than willing to assst. Please feel free to let me know.

ROOTS And SHOOTS

By Pam Lash
Williams County Genealogical Society

July 1983

A special summer event is being planned for those who are hooked on family research. The Williams County Genealogical Society will host a Family History Fair to be held Saturday, Aug. 20, at the Wesley United Methodist Church in Bryan from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The purpose of the fair, which is free to the public, is to promote interest in family history. Displays will be set up and speakers will discuss various aspects of such research. Anyone with an interest is welcome to set up a display or to submit a poster with surnames of research. For further details, contact Jo Ellen Culbertson, 636-5464.

The next meeting of the W.C.G.S. will be 7:30 p.m., Monday, July 11, at the Citizens National Bank in Bryan. (Please note change of meeting place). Those wishing to attend should enter by the High Street entrance and proceed to the downstairs meeting room. This will be a work session to index a future publication and to make posters for the Family History Fair. The public is always welcome to attend society meetings. At this meeting those who have purchased an Atlas reprint are asked to pick up their copy of the 1894 Montpelier map which should be inserted in the Atlas.

This month's early Williams County Pioneer sketch concerns the father of the first white child born in Tiffin Township of what was then known as Williams County and is presently included in Defiance County. At this time there were approximately three Indians to every white male in that section.

Enos Partee, son of George and Elizabeth Partee, Sr., was born June 2, 1794 in West Virginia. He died April 5, 1876, at the age of 81 years, 10 months, and 3 days in Defiance County, Ohio, and was buried in the McCauley Cemetery of that county. He first married Phebe Duncan, April 18, 1816, in Adams County, Ohio. Phebe was born 1793 in Virginia; she died June 10, 1855 in Defiance County.

By tradition George Partee, a farmer and wine maker, served in 'the Revolutionary War, but to date this has not been proven. He was probably born in Pennsylvania and lived for a time in Virginia.

He then went to Kentucky, residing in the Blue Licks area where Daniel Boone lost one of his sons in an Indian fight. He was buried in the family cemetery southwest of Peebles, Adams County, Ohio.

As a youngster, Enos traveled to Adams County with his family. In 1824 he decided to locate in the wilds of what was known as Williams County, where several of his cousins had settled. Arriving without means, he rented a piece of ground from Robert Kepler on the Maumee River to raise corn. Between times he made a living shooting and trapping game. After harvesting his first corn crop, Enos started back to Adams County to prepare for his own family's relocation.

The Partee family arrived at Brunersburg on Christmas day in 1824 and spent the winter in a cabin near the Kibble Run. Having no money to buy land, Enos had to depend on the animals of the forest, but he soon took a "squatter's right" on a farm now known as the Houck farm. He built a cabin, cleared some of the land, and planted an orchard by securing the necessary fruit trees from the present Krotz farm. In his struggle to obtain the need cash to enter the land at government prices, he lost it to another who did have available money.

At this time Ephraim Douty had settled there with his family. Being anxious for company, Ephraim persuaded Enos to take a lease of four acres on his farm until he could make another start. Enos later managed to save enough from his game and pelt money to enter 110 acres in Tiffin Township. While residing at the Douty farm, Enos' second daughter, Lovina, was born.

For the first five years all the wheat they raised was "sick" and could not be used. The family had to depend on corn for bread. There were no roads then and the nearest mill was at Perrysburg on the Maumee River which then was navigable. They loaded the corn into canoes and took it

One of the greatest difficulties encountered in rearing a family at that time was providing the necessary clothing for the children. Their raiment consisted of furs. Later when they could afford a few head of sheep. Phebe spun yarn and wove cloth to make more comfortable garments.

In May 1856, the widower Enos married Catherine (Lutz) Jones. Catherine was born 1809 and died Feb. 22, 1878. Together they toiled to eventually add 80 acres to the original homestead. At one time Enos sold $60 worth of honey from wild bees to buy a good horse to help with the farming.

A pot-luck reunion of the descendants of Enos Partee is scheduled for July 10, 1983.

Enos and Phebe Partee were the parents of the following nine children of whom the four youngest were born in Tiffin Township: (1) Hester Ann, born June 2, 1817, died Dec. 10,

Will just write on this as I know that you will want to arrange any of it that interests you in your own way. Just got this in the mail today. Had sent Kathryn what you sent me. She said she had exchanged material with Betty Pagra since 1974 so maybe you have all of this.

My real purpose in writing is about the cemetery south west of Peebles. Kathryn said in her letter that she needed to check the Purter Cemetery on the Shoemaker farm. I can almost see it from our side yard. Isn't that something? Have known about it for many years but never thought I would find out about anyone buried there. My husband has been over there several times. He will go with Kathryn when she comes to go. I hope to go too.

Am sending ^{copy of} Mary Charlotte's parents, bro's & sis. Had this copied for at the bank - they surely don't do a very good job. If you are interested in them I can get better copies somewhere else. I also have Eveline's parents & bro's & sisters - my Great-Grand's Any questions?

This gets bigger and better all the time.

Hope to hear from you again.

Sincerely Flora Foster

Dear Twila. Sorry for the long delay. However the brown envelope will be coming to you as soon as my cousin has to go to the Post Office again. I don't go as the parking is not very handy. I am disappointed to have to tell you that we will not be getting a picture of the three stones that remain in the Partee Cem.; George, Agnes, wife of Aquilla, and Aquilla. I received a reply to my e-m that the property is privately owned and he will not let anyone on his property. Isn't that sad!

I've also included the list of items that I mailed to Carroll Adams in 1999. If you find any of these that you would like to have just let me know.

1. Article about Buck Cemetery
2. Reading of stones in Buck Cem.
3. Roots and Shoots by Pam Lash
4. Family sheet by Velma R. Lenz
5. Purtee Family Cem., Meigs Twp., Adams Co., OH
6. List of items mailed to Carol Adams on 11 June 1999
7. Charts P-1 and P-2 by Ro. Bayes
8. Family sheet for George Purtee and 1st wife Elizabeth & 2nd wife Rachel Hague

As you can see my charts were made back when there were only typewriter and pencils. If you see some incorrect information, please let me know so I can change it.

On one of my genealogy trips in Adams Co. probably in 1980, while at the library, the librarian said, "you need to see Flora Foster." She picked up the telephone and said, "Flora, there is someone here that needs to see you. Will you be at home this afternoon?" Soon I was visiting with Flora. In a letter from her she said that when Kathryn Miller came again, her flora's husband, would take her over to the cemetery. I never corresponded with this Kathryn Miller so I don't know if this ever happened. Her address was 3311 Decater Pike, Winchester, OH 45697. In 1968 she copied in basement of courthouse, West Union, OH some old papers that were in very bad shape. Do you have these and would you like to have them?

Hope in this "stuff" you will find something you want. Wish I had kept better records of when and where. Keep asking and if I didn't answer your questions I'll try the next time.

Local war hero remembered in North Dakota

By LYNN THOMPSON

lthompson@bryantimes.com

Aquilla Coonrod was the first settler born in Williams County and the first to enlist for service during the Civil War.

He was not, however, the first soldier from Williams County to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor. That distinction went to William J. Knight, a train engineer who participated in the Andrews Raid to capture a Confederate locomotive in 1862.

If Debbie Crossland is right, Coonrod may deserve a second medal — not for defending the nation, but for protecting his soldiers and their pay.

In 2011, Crossland was a reporter with the Sidney

Herald, in Richland County, Montana, and a weekend volunteer at the Fort Buford State Historical Site just across the state line in Williston, North Dakota. She's a full-time historian now and she spoke to The Times Tuesday in a series of phone interviews between school tours.

"We have a headstone with his name on it," Crossland said. (It actually reads "Coonrad" and he's not buried there, but more on that later.) "I was working here one weekend when two ladies came up said they were relatives of his.

"They asked if I knew his story and I didn't, so they took over the tour and told me all about it."

Crossland started doing her own research and in May 2011, she published an account of Coonrod's last act of heroism. The Bryan Times did likewise, with help from Librarian Assistant Denver Henderson at Williams County's Local History Center, and added details to her account.

Coonrod was born Nov. 20, 1831, in a log cabin near Evansport, which was in Williams County at the time, but is part of Defiance County now. (The courthouses in Bryan and Defiance both have plaques dedicated to him.) His mother, Hulda Coonrod, died three years later and was the first person buried in Buck Cemetery, having picked the spot herself during a picnic with friends a few months prior.

"She laid down in the grass and said that it was such a nice spot that when she died she wanted to be buried right there," Crossland said.

Historical records note Coonrod "grew to be a well set up man, 5 feet 11, blue eyes, brown hair, of muddly complexion (sic)." He worked at the Bryan Hub and Spoke factory on South Main Street and lived in Stryker until 1861 when he signed a three-month enlistment with the 14th Ohio Volunteer Infantry and got his corporal stripes.

At the end of his enlistment, on Aug. 13, 1861, he signed up with the 125th Ohio Volunteer Infantry for three years and became a captain in two. He led Company I through the battles at Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge without a scratch. Coincidentally, the regimental commander, Col. Samuel Emerson Opdycke, also came from Williams County.

Coonrod resigned his commission on April 30, 1864, "due to physical disability" during William Tecumseh Sherman's March to the Sea and he went back to his old job at the Hub and Spoke factory.

He re-enlisted as soon as he was able and became a sergeant in George Armstrong Custer's Seventh Cavalry until he was discharged in January 1865 "on account of a surplus in non-commissioned officers."

Coonrod enlisted again on Christmas Eve 1873, with the Fifth Infantry Regiment, and took his family to Fort Buford. He was still there on June 25, 1876, when Custer and everyone with him died at the Battle of Little Big Horn. (Lt. James H. Bradley, also from Stryker, was the first to find the victims the morning after.)

On Jan. 8, 1877, Coonrod led soldiers of Company F in a charge against Crazy Horse and an estimated 500 warriors at the Battle of Wolf Mountain. The charge was uphill through deep snow and Coonrod was commended for "extraordinary acts of heroism and gallantry in action." Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman, by then the Army chief of staff in Washington, D.C., was so impressed he rode out to Montana and pinned the Congressional Medal of Honor himself on April 27.

Life didn't get any easier after that and Coonrod petitioned the Secretary of War for a transfer. "It would be very difficult for me to support my family on my present pay," he wrote. "I therefore respectfully request that my appointment as ordinance sergeant be granted."

That didn't happen. His wife left him in August 1881, and he went back to the Seventh Cavalry as the first sergeant of Troop F.

On May 14, 1884, Coonrod was in charge of the security detail escorting Maj. Charles Whipple, an Army paymaster carrying $20,000 in payroll for 7th Cavalry soldiers, from Glendive, Montana, to Fort Buford and its outposts.

They had a military escort wagon leading a covered ambulance where they always kept the money out of view. Whipple rode up front in the first wagon but, anticipating trouble in rough country north of Burns Creek, he moved the strong-box up under his own seat before they broke camp that morning.

The escort traveled four miles north along the Yellowstone River until they came to a ravine. It was a narrow pass with an uphill grade to Grant's Prairie so they'd be vulnerable, moving slow in single file. That's when Coonrod stopped the convoy, tied his horse to the back of the wagon and switched places with Whipple.

At the top of the ravine, seven men attacked without warning.

Coonrod was shot in the chest, "but he bravely responded to the fire and kept it up until, receiving a second wound, (also in he chest) he was disabled," according to Whipple's account of the incident afterward.

The mules bolted with Coonrod and his driver, who had been hit in the arm, still on board, and Whipple chased after it but the attackers focused on the ambulance. They ransacked it and found nothing.

The other six soldiers surrendered under withering fire and took the ambulance back to Glendive after their pockets were emptied and rifles smashed.

Whipple caught up with the wagon near Scott's Ranch (where the town of Savage, Montana, is today) and found the strongbox intact with all of its payroll, but Coonrod "died in my arms 20 minutes after being shot," he wrote.

Four days later (May 19, 1884) Col. John D. Wilkings, commander of the Fifth Infantry Regiment, reported the attackers were still in Glendive and they "can be captured in a short time if steps are taken to place a detective on their trail."

On May 27, Donald McArthur was identified as a suspect "as there can be no doubt he was one of the party, the circumstantial evidence is very strong," according to historical records. The Department of Justice offered a $1,000 reward in June "for the arrest of the whole party concerned in the attack," but no arrests were ever made and the crime remains unsolved to this day.

Coonrod was buried at Fort Buford under the misspelled tombstone, which is still there. In 1896 he was reinterred with his comrades from the Seventh Cavalry at the Custer National Cemetery on the Little Bighorn Battlefield, but his final sacrifice has never been honored.

Of the 3,517 Congressional Medals of Honor awarded since 1863, (Knight and the other Andrews Raiders were the very first to receive them, from Abraham Lincoln at the White House) 193 have been awarded for actions outside of enemy combat, said Laura Jowdy, archivist for the Congressional Medal of Honor Museum in Mount Pleasant, South Carolina.

"Most non-combat interim awards were in the Navy or Marine, but three were in the Army," Jowdy said.

Fredrick W. Gerber received one on Nov. 8, 1871, in recognition of his 32-year career rather than any single act of heroism. (He also reportedly saved the life of a young second lieutenant named George McClellan in the Battle of Mexico City during the Mexican-American War. McClellan went on to command the Union Army during the Civil War and ran against Lincoln for the presidency in 1864.)

In 1916, criteria for the medal was restricted to "combat action and risk of life above and beyond the call of duty" but there were still exceptions: Charles Lindbergh, a captain in the U.S. Army Air Corps Reserves, received the medal in 1927 for his transatlantic flight in the Spirit of St. Louis from New York to Paris, and Arctic explorer Adolphus Greely received the Medal in 1935 "for his life of splendid public service."

"The Indian Campaigns aren't considered a war any more," Jowdy said. "It was really just a bunch of little conflicts popping up all over the place, but due to the time and location (Coonrod's actions) should still qualify as combat. A lot of those guys have disappeared into history, but it's good to pull them out of the ether and re-introduce them to the world."

THE BRYAN TIMES

Marcia Fudge and Joyce Beatty in a letter Thursday questioned "the very rationale" of a Medicaid waiver Ohio submitted to the federal government May 1.

It lays out details for imposing a work and would create "needless administrative bureaucracy and red tape" that risks accidentally kicking off people who "need and deserve" the program.

Kasich's spokesman couldn't immediately be reached for comment.

Health care CEOs highest paid

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The highest pay packages go to CEOs at health care companies. For the second time in three years, chief executives in the health care field led the S&P 500 in terms of total compensation. The typical CEO in the industry made $14.9 million last year, which means half earned more than that, and half made less.

A look at the top and bottom-paid CEOs last year, by industry, as calculated by The Associated Press and Equilar, an executive data firm.

Top paid:

1. Health care, median compensation of $14.9 million, up 10 percent from a year earlier.
2. Industrial goods, $13.9 million, up 9 percent
3. Basic materials, $12.7 million, up 16 percent

Bottom paid:

1. Utilities, $9.3 million, up 8 percent
2. Financial, $10.4 million, up 10 percent
3. Services, $11.3 million, up 5 percent

Dear Raena,

I hope you and your brother will have a wonderful Holiday - My husband, Willard, is not doing very well - he is on home & fying and is almost compeite care - he tries so hard not to be any trouble and get so mad at himself for not be able to do more. Thank godness I have wonderful children who comes and help as much as they can - I don't expect too much from them as one lives three hundreds miles away and comes as often as he can (been here three times in two months and will be here around Christmas.)

I haven't been able to do too much on the family tree but maybe after the Holidays things will slow down - I love working on it - better than taking pills for nerves.

You and Bob Ulrick have been such a great help and I'll never be able to thank you, enough.

Love
Jan

PURTEE FAMILY CEMETERY, Meigs Township, Adams Co., Ohio

This is located on the Carol Shoemaker farm on Measley Ridge Rd. close to the intersection of State Route 134 and 41. Mrs. Donald (Betty) Pazera gave the information in 1974. There were only 3 marked graves indicating that there were graves that didn't have markers. We visited the farm May 1975 however due to electric fences and cattle in the field we were advised not to go back to the cemetery, however, the resident assured us that grounds were in good shape and that she was sure the three markers were all that remain. If visiting the cemetery be sure to blow your horn due to sign "Beware of dogs"

This is located on the Carol Shoemaker farm on Measley Ridge Rd. close to the intersection of State Route 134 and 41. Mrs. Donald (Betty) Pazera gave the information in 1974. There were only 3 marked graves indicating that there were graves that didn't have markers. We visited the farm May 1975 however due to electric fences and cattle in the field we were advised not to go back to the cemetery, however, the resident assured us that grounds were in good shape and that she was sure the three markers were all that remain. If visiting the cemetery besure to blow your horn due to sign "Beware of dogs"
